Town prepares for the revival of Cherry Fayre

AXMINSTER is gearing up for the revival of its Cherry Fayre, which first took place in the town more than 800 years ago.

The town will come together for a series of events from June 17th-24th, raising funds for Axminster's Christmas lights.

The Light Up Axminster group was formed in January, where it was soon decided that – as well as raising funds for the town's Christmas lights – they would also play a part in putting on other celebratory events to bring the community together.

The new group received the remaining funds from its predecessor (Axminster Christmas Lights Association) but has also made good progress with its own fundraising efforts, with nearly £2,000 in the coffers already.

The Cherry Fayre can be traced back to 1210 when the then Lord of the Manor, William Brewer, received a royal charter to hold an annual fayre in honour of the Feast of St John the Baptist.

Great prestige and valuable trade came to the town through assorted merchants, traders and dealers, with some even travelling from as far away as mainland Europe.

Whilst organisers of the revived event can't promise the attendance of the pedlars, quack-doctors and acrobats of yesteryear, they hope their programme will provide many activities that appeal to all.

The three main events of the week will be the ancient 'Raising of the Glove' ceremony on the Thursday (June 22nd), 'Axminster's Big Dinner' on Friday (June 23rd), and a community picnic on the Minster Green on Saturday (June 24th).

Raising of the Glove

The Raising of the Glove ceremony is a key part of the Cherry Fayre celebrations as both have their roots in the ancient charter between King John and William Brewer.

The document, accompanied by a glove as a sign of the King's power and authority, conferred the title of Lord of the Manor upon William Brewer and granted Axminster the status of a Free Borough.

The tradition continues today with the now Lord of the Manor, Jim Rowe, holding aloft the glove and hailing: "The glove is up".

He also makes reference to something along the lines of 'no man is to be arrested until the glove is down'; but organisers of the fayre do not recommend testing this part of Jim's declaration!

The fayre's jester, Fiery Jack, will also be popping-up where you least expect him on the day.

An experienced circus performer, magician and street entertainer, Fiery Jack will be captivating audiences around the town.

For smaller children, there will be two Punch 'n' Judy shows during the day; one after St Mary's Catholic Primary School Young Musicians perform and another later in the afternoon.

'Big Dinner'

Don't worry about cooking tea on Friday, June 23rd – come down to the town centre and visit the tasty street food sellers who will be doing all the hard work for you!

There will also be live music, a traditional children's funfair and full bar facilities, courtesy of The Lamb and The Castle Inn. The fun on Friday takes places from 4pm-9pm.

Community picnic

On Saturday, June 24th the Minster Green picnic, from 1:30pm, will offer free ice cream to children, a 'keepy-uppy' competition, face painting, music, morris dancing, a bouncy castle, slide, merry-go-round and much more.

The afternoon will conclude with a special closing service to the week's festivities at 5pm.

Other highlights of the week's programme include a Peter Rabbit trail around the town organised by Acorn Gifts and a treasure hunt overseen by the Yarty Party festival, which takes place next month.

The week also coincides with the Axe Vale Festival, which takes place on the showground on June 17th and 18th.

On Saturday (June 17th) there's a disco at the Axminster Inn from 9pm, and the following day there's tae kwon-do at the Guildhall in the morning and an open mic session at The Castle Inn in the evening.

On Monday (June 19th) there's a pizza and quiz night at Le Pisani and bingo at the Guildhall, while on Tuesday (June 20th) there a 'Cooking For One' session at the United Reform Church in the morning and an open evening at the youth club.

NCP will also be donating all the fees taken at their Axminster car park from June 19th to 24th to the Light Up Axminster Christmas Fund.

For more information on these and other events taking place around the town during the week, please see the Cherry Fayre programme which is currently being delivered to homes around the town.

■ A RECENT coffee morning in Axminster helped to promote the forthcoming community picnic on the Minster Green, which takes place as part of Cherry Fayre Week on Saturday, June 24th. The coffee morning helped raise money towards the staging of the picnic and took place on May 18th, with Marilyn Lewis, Jacqui Thomas and Sue Ticehurst pictured above at the event. The picnic will be in aid of the church's 'Minster Makeover' project.

NEWS FROM AROUND PULMAN'S COUNTRY... East Devon & South Somerset

Sixth former's inspirational mayor making speech

A 17-YEAR-old student from Honiton Community College made quite an impact when he welcomed new mayor, Councillor John Zarczynski, at the recent mayor making ceremony in Honiton recently.

Jack Haigh was given the opportunity by the college to speak at the meeting that was attended by Conservative councillors including East Devon District Council leader Andrew Moulding, leader of East Devon District Council Paul Diviani, county councillor and deputy leader of the district council Phil Twiss and Conservative parliamentary candidate Neil Parish, and used the platform to appeal to residents to think about and support the issues concerning young people in the town.

Jack said: "The young of today of this country have some of the greatest challenges of any group. A housing crisis, threatening the very notion of home-ownership, the continued growth of university fees and their associated debt and a mental health crisis of immense proportion are just some of the many changes that haunt too many of our young people today.

"When we add the huge external and existential crisis facing our world today, such as a failed economic model in terminal decline or climate change, the picture can look very bleak indeed.

"I see, though, a unique position for the younger population up and down the country. As a young person today, we stand on what I think is a precipice between two, very different worlds.

"All generations have said something similar, but I truly believe that this is a new position to be in. The challenges we face are large, but so too are the opportunities.

"I believe that the kind of changes that the young population needs to see made in the country today can be made only in one way – from the bottom up.

"In communities like ours, there is poverty, uncertainty, depression, fear, concern and strife about the basics of living.

"For too many people, the idea of the future brings all the wrong images to the mind. Even in supposedly rural communities like ours, there is the whole mix of the human experience in terms of deprivation.

"Many of the young people I went and go to school with are already beginning to feel the pinch of austerity economics.

"Inequality is growing, and with it a kind of ladder society, in which everyone has a place – for most of us that place is down, beneath, hidden and invisible.

"We have become a group of consumers – not a society of citizens – and some basic respect for everybody's own worth has been lost."

Jack, in front of his head of year and school principle, described the 'utter outrage' he felt that that are schools across the country in debt and how the education system in the country needed to evolve: "At the present moment, nearly every secondary in Devon is having to contemplate redundancy and course cutting on a previously unseen scale.

"The government's ideological and economically illiterate austerity proposals have left real people's lives in a shocking way.

"What is the point in being the fifth richest country on Earth if we have head teachers asking parents at the school gate for money to employ staff, or we have nurses going to food banks?

"Speaking as someone who just finished their GCSEs last year, I know the imminent need to move our education system away from a deeply regressive 'teach-it-to-the-test' system.

"Students' real potentials, skills, desires, and natural interests have been ignored, and in their place, we are told that everything we do has to be about money.

"True, money is important, but so too is building a society in which everyone can fulfil their passions, and that the government continues to cut funding for arts in education is an abuse of the talents of so many children.

"Don't get me wrong – none of this is due to the teachers in our schools who are a deadly mix of underpaid and overworked, whose efforts are reduced to four overly simple levels, or inspected upon, without the inspectorate taking into account the most crucial factor in any educational success – background.

"It is hardly a mystery why the profession is struggling to employ, like so many other public services under this government.

"I hope whoever wins on June 9th will seriously consider these issues I have raised, though I fear that some groups really do not care. But aside from that, let me remind all our people that in communities like Honiton, we too can come together to change the discussion and refocus the chattering classes on real people, with real lives and real concerns."

This is an abridged version of Jack Haigh's speech at Honiton mayor making on May 22nd.

A35 to Bridport closed overnight

THE A35 between Axminster and Bridport is now in its second week of being closed overnight, with the road being shut to traffic from 8pm to 6am.

The closure is part of a 10-week road improvement scheme at the Hunters Lodge junction, which will not only increase safety for road users but also improve crossing facilities for pedestrians.

Light westbound traffic is being diverted via Beaminstor, Crewkerne and Chard, and there is an eastbound diversion in reverse.

HGVs and caravans travelling westbound will be diverted from the A35 at Dorchester, via Yeovil and Ilminster, on roads more suitable for this type of traffic; again, with a reverse eastbound diversion in operation.

The improvement work includes reconfigured lane markings, a signalised pedestrian crossing, the installation of speed activated signs in both directions, a high-friction road surface and new signage.

Highways England operations and maintenance team leader, Nick Reed, said at the start of the project: "We have been liaising with our local authority partners and listening to communities to make sure we have the right junction layout in place for this scheme.

"We have looked at all of the available safety measures for this junction.

"Traffic management will be in place during the work, we will be working to keep disruption to a minimum and further details will be available in due course."

The safety improvement scheme is expected to cost around £560,000 and is due to be completed in mid-June, in time for the summer holidays.

While the road is closed, other routine maintenance work will also be carried out at various points along that section of the A35.

During any roadworks, Highways England advises drivers to plan their journeys and allow extra time while they are being delivered.

Drivers can get up-to-the-minute travel information by phoning the Highways England Information Line on 0300 123 5000 or by accessing the website.

Further information regarding current and planned roadworks in the South West region plus neighbouring regions, including the programme, can be found on the Highways England website.

Reassurances after postal voting slips security error

THE Acting Returning Officer for the East Devon Constituency, Mark Williams, has issued a statement to reassure postal voters after voting slips were issued without the official security mark on them.

Mr Williams said: "It has come to my attention that the postal vote packs we issued on May 25th contained voting slips that did not have an official security mark visible on the front of the ballot paper. This has affected a total of 9,000 postal voters.

"I want to reassure those postal voters affected that if they have not yet returned their postal votes they should still do so.

"We have taken all the necessary steps to ensure the postal votes are valid and will be counted.

"I apologise for the error but want to reassure postal voters that they should still complete their postal voting statements and return their postal voting envelopes back to me for validating as part of the normal postal voting process.

"To be valid, a postal vote has to be accompanied by a valid postal voting statement containing the voter's date of birth and signature.

"After these are checked, the envelope containing the postal voting slip is opened and the slip is put into a sealed ballot box where it is kept safe until the formal count.

"My postal vote opening teams will ensure that all validly completed postal votes are double-checked so that they will go forward to the count along with all the other votes that will be cast on polling day itself."

A second issue of postal votes was sent out on May 31st and all the postal voting slips will have the appropriate security mark.

Similarly, all ballot papers issued at the polling stations will have the necessary security mark as well.

Green candidate clarifies position on EU referendum

FOLLOWING our article on the Axminster hustings event, which featured candidates for the Tiverton and Honiton constituency in this Thursday's general election, the Green Party's Gill Westcott has asked us to clarify her stance on a second referendum on leaving the EU after we reported she was in favour of one.

Ms Westcott said: "I too adopt the Green Party position that only after the negotiations on exit terms from the EU is known should the people of the UK (rather than Parliament only) have a say on whether the terms are acceptable.

"The ballot paper should also have the options: Remain in the EU; Leave anyway (without accepting the terms negotiated).

"There should be no second referendum until the pig is out of the poke (or the cat out of the bag)."

Nathan's marathon in a month

NATHAN Hall from Honiton, who goes to school in Membury, has just completed an amazing challenge he set himself – to complete a fundraising 'marathon in a month' for the charity Bibic.

Nathan lives with dyspraxia – a disorder which effects co-ordination and movement – makes this feat even more impressive.

Cheered on by family, friends, supporters and the charity's mascot, eight-year old Nathan celebrated his last marathon mile by finishing his challenge at Bibic's HQ in Langport, Somerset.

This is an incredible achievement for Nathan, who finds sports activities difficult due to his dyspraxia.

Inspired by watching the London Marathon, Nathan decided to set himself the goal of running a 'marathon in a month' to raise money for Bibic.

Nathan said: "Bibic helps children like me who find learning difficult, and I wanted to do something for others like me. I came here when I was little and it really helped me and my family."

During this last month, Nathan has covered 31 miles, taking part in parkruns, fun runs and family runs across Devon with the support of many friends and family by his side.

Juliet Hall, Nathan's mum, said: "We are so proud of Nathan. He came up with this idea all my himself as he wanted to give something back to Bibic who helped him and his brother when he was a child.

"It's been lovely to see how much Nathan has enjoyed this whole experience and how much more confident he is at running – something he really didn't like before.

"It's great to see him believe in himself; he now says he can, not he can't.

"And the donations are still coming in, it's amazing – I think he will raise more than £700!"

Bibic CEO Lynda Williams commented said: "Thank you Nathan for raising all this money for us and well done on your fantastic running.

"It was great fun to celebrate your last mile here at Bibic. "

Bibic is a small charity that works with children and young people with neurological and genetic conditions that cause developmental difficulties, affecting their social, physical, communication and learning abilities.

END IN SIGHT: Bibic's CEO Lynda Williams cheers Nathan on as he runs towards the finish line

New nets at Honiton Cricket Club

HONITON Cricket Club has officially opened its new nets with the help of former England international and Somerset legend Andy Caddick.

Andy was welcomed to the club by chairman Andrew Lapping and vice chairman Peter Matravers, before an assembled chairman's XI took on a vice chairman's XI in a match.

Peter Matravers explained why the cricket nets were such an achievement for the club and for the community spirit of the town.

He said: "The club was in a pretty poor state three or four years ago. We had very little money and were in danger of folding.

"We were also struggling on the field with performance and attracting and retaining players.

"This led to changes to the committee and we now have some very good, hard-working officers in the right positions which is led by Andrew.

"We soon set about getting things right off the field which we felt were essential; foundations to build on.

"Improving our financial position was our first priority and once this was done through sponsorship we then concentrated on improving our facilities and youth set up.

"We now have sight screens and covers and our brand new nets. We also have two youth teams and hope to expand this in the years to come."

"The nets project itself was our most ambitious. I remember on a wet and cold January night last year Andrew and I having a depressing meeting at the Heathfield with Matt Theedom of the ECB telling him our funding bids with Tesco and Viridor had failed.

"We explained to him our vision and ambitions of the club. Matt, at this stage, could not say if the ECB would support the project but suggested we started fundraising, as they would only partially fund any net construction."

The cricket club started crowdfunding last summer and created a video with young club member Matthew as the star.

Matthew would later face Andy Caddick in the nets and duly handled himself extremely well.

The crowdfunding campaign was given generous donations by local businesses and individuals and the club raised more than £4,500, which Peter says far exceeded their expectations.

Peter thanked club members that used their expertise to help get the nets project built in a short space of time, after the ECB agreed to help fund the nets but only gave them a few months to spend the grant.

Following the opening of the nets, Peter said: "Tonight is a celebration of what we have achieved and is an opportunity to say thanks to everyone that helped.

"So on the behalf of the club I would just like to say that we are very appreciative of your efforts."

Alex to cycle more than 3,000 miles across America

SEATON resident and former Axe Valley Academy student Alex Hunt, 22, will play a crucial support role when a Help For Heroes team of eight wounded, injured and sick (WIS) ex-military personnel takes on one of the world's toughest endurance cycling events, the epic 3,081 mile Race Across America (RAAM).

The race is in June and Alex will be part of the support crew.

Anders Larsson

Chief reporter | anders@viewnews.co.uk

He has been working voluntarily with the Help For Heroes veterans while studying for a Masters in Sport & Exercise Physiology at Cardiff Metropolitan University.

In March he ran the Grizzly, raising more than £600 for the charity.

His role so far has been as part of the sport science team; however, during the race Alex will be part of the support crew aiding the riders as they cycle across America.

"I feel honoured to be part of this team and am really looking forward to the race ahead.

"Working with the team has been an inspirational experience for me. It makes you realise you have no excuse.

"The veterans show an immense level of courage, strength, determination and enthusiasm.

"The race itself will be a formidable challenge for everyone but hugely rewarding once we have completed it," said Alex.

The RAAM is considered by many to be the one of the toughest endurance cycling events.

Starting in Oceanside, California, the team will pass through 12 states, covering over 3,081 miles, finishing in Annapolis, Maryland.

The team members are hoping to complete the race within seven days.

They are using the challenge not only as an important part of their recovery but are also aiming to raise £100,000 for Help For Heroes as a way of giving back to a charity which has supported them since injury. The race starts on June 17th.

NCP back Christmas lights campaign

PARKING provider NCP will donate six days' takings from its Axminster facility to the town's Christmas lights fund.

To help give Axminster "the festive sparkle it deserves", NCP is pledging to donate every penny of its takings between June 19th and 24th to Light Up Axminster, the group of volunteers set-up last year.

Group members have been overwhelmed by the support from local businesses in raising the sums needed to put on a new range of events throughout summer for the community to enjoy and, at the same time, boost fundraising for the Christmas lights.

One of the main features will be the resurrection of the town's Cherry Fayre, the origins of which go back 800 years.

NCP business manager Carly Edwards said: "We opened our Lyme Street car park in Axminster last November and have been made to feel very welcome by the town.

"We wanted to say thank you to the local community and what better way than by helping to make sure everyone can enjoy an eye-catching lighting display this Christmas?

"Our Lyme Street car park is ideally placed right in the heart of the town for the Cherry Fayre activities and events.

"In an average week around 700 cars use it, but we expect this number to rise in Cherry Fayre week due to all the activities planned, so we're optimistic of being able to make a fairly sizeable donation to the Christmas lights fund."

Cindy Furse, chairman of Light Up Axminster, said she was bowled over when NCP offered to donate the takings.

She said: "It's fantastic that NCP – a relative newcomer to the town – is prepared to make such a generous gesture.

"The business community – new and longer-standing – as well as the wider community at large have all thrown their energies into the pot to help us create eight days of fun in the town. Make sure you get your hands on a programme – it's going to be a blast."

Carpets introduce new delivery service

AXMINSTER Carpets have announced a significant improvement in their delivery service to offer faster deliveries and increased flexibility.

From June 9th they will be providing named day deliveries throughout the week as standard on all their carpets and underlay.

The cut off time for orders to be despatched the same day will also be extended to 2pm.

The change will mean that most orders will be delivered two days after placing the order, depending on location, and no 'in stock' carpet will take longer than five days (mainland UK).

For non-stocked or custom carpets including made to order collections, the customer services team will be able to advise stockists of a delivery date at point of order or once the production schedule has been agreed.

This service improvement will not only help with the fitting schedule but significantly reduce delivery times.

Chantel-Leigh Summers, Axminster Carpets operations director, said: "This is a significant improvement in customer service.

"By knowing the exact delivery day for their carpets, our customers will not only be able to effectively plan fitting but be able to better support their customer when choosing a new carpet.

"In addition to this, for total peace of mind, each delivery will be tracked and traced every step of the journey from the factory to its destination."

This new distribution service will be provided in partnership with Rhys Davies Logistics, who have been providing a specialist carpet delivery service for over 10 years, using their own specifically designed fleet and dedicated drivers.

Shurdington

Local Scouts take first and third place

SCOUTS from Beer and Seaton took gold and bronze at the annual South West Regional Cooking Competition in Shurdington, Gloucestershire.

Twelve teams met to do battle over beaten eggs and gas stoves.

After a hard two hours in the camp-style kitchen, with only a two-ring gas burner, the teams stood proudly beside their tables for the judges to critique just as they do on Masterchef.

The results were announced in a packed room of more than 80 people.

Scout leader Fiona Gage said: "The tension was almost visible.

"A Scout leader from Swindon started with handing out the certificates of merit for everyone to lots of noisy cheers and clapping.

"Then it came to the top three. The room fell silent again. "Both the troops from Devon stood together looking at each other in anticipation.

"When Seaton Scout group were called up for third place, the Beer group cheered very loudly for their fellow Devonian Scouts.

"The room again fell silent and second place was called out, which went to 1st Deer Park - Kemble."

Nigel Groves, leader for Beer Scouts, took up the story and said: "At this point I looked at the group and it was amazing to see the anticipation on their faces change to absolute delight when their name was read out as coming first, they just could not believe it.

"They just jumped up and down in the group hugging each other.

"I am just so proud of them and the dedication and hard work they have shown."

Fiona added: "The dedication these four young people (Kendle, 13, Isla, 11, Dylan, 11 and Adam, 10) have shown over the last six weeks of training has been admirable.

"They have listened to the advice they were given and put it into practice.

"It has been great to see the friendly rivalry between the Devon groups and this has pushed all the youngsters on to do better.

"People should not underestimate what young people can do in the kitchen."

New Wetlands trail for pre-schoolers

A NEW rainbow-themed trail which is aimed at pre-school aged children has been installed at Seaton Wetlands.

The trail starts in the Wetlands car park (accessed through Seaton cemetery, on Colyford Road) and takes visitors on a self-guided activity trail around the reserve.

Visitors are taken on a journey through the Wetlands reserves by following different coloured wooden posts.

At nine points along the trail there are exciting activities to engage young children; including a hunt for natural colours and shapes, stop and listen to the sounds of the nature reserve, tip-toe over bridges trying not to disturb the troll beneath, and much much more!

The majority of the trail is pushchair and scooter/bike friendly; the small sections which are off the tarmacked path have spaces where pushchairs can be left nearby.

In order to suit little legs, the trail can be completed in one visit or started and finished at any point.

East Devon District Council Countryside Education ranger, Meg Knowles, who put the trail together said: "The aim of the trail is to keep younger children interested during walks.

"The activities help children to engage with their wild surroundings and could also offer ideas for families to use when out and about on other countryside walks.

"We hope to see lots of children taking part and enjoying a well earned picnic afterwards!"

The trail will run until Friday, September 8th and can be walked on any day, at any time during that period.

There are toilets and picnic tables at Seaton Wetlands. Tea, coffee and biscuits are available from the Discovery Hut, where you can view the recently hatched kestrel chicks on the kestrel cam.

The hut is open from 10am to 4pm, Saturday to Monday, and 11am to 1pm, Tuesday to Thursday until the kestrel chicks fledge at the end of June.

For further information on visiting Seaton Wetlands please visit wildestdevon.co.uk; alternatively you can contact the Countryside team via email countryside@eastdevon.gov.uk or phone 01395 517557.

Offwell pupils back from trip to London

OFFWELL School's Year Five and Six children recently returned from a residential trip to London, where they enjoyed an action-packed weekend.

For some children this was their first trip away from home and also to London.

Offwell headteacher Anne Billington said: "Residential trips are a really good chance for young children to be away from home but still feel safe being with members of their class and staff they know really well."

It was a busy few days with visits to the British Museum's Greek Gallery, Wonderlab and the Flash Bang Wallop Show at the Science Museum, as well as Dino Investigations at the Natural History Museum.

Students enjoyed some of London's cultural landmarks as well as they visited the National Gallery in Trafalgar Square and the class had a wonderful time on the London Eye looking over the city.

Mrs Billington added: "Children returned home tired but satisfied.

"Parents expressed their appreciation of the trip telling us how their children 'loved their first residential coming back tired but not too dirty' and with one child referring to the trip as 'epic'."

THE children enjoyed the Wonderlab exhibition at the Science Museum

tween £400 and £600.

"It measures just 18 centimetres high by 12.5 square, but is quite hefty - weighing in at around seven and a half kilograms," added Duncan.

There are also two large displays of medallions awarded to locksmiths and safe-makers in other 19th century trade exhibitions.

Trade exhibitions were very popular in the Victorian era.

The Glasgow exhibition of 1888 took place in Kelvingrove Park between May and November; it was designed to grow international awareness of Glasgow's achievements in science, the arts and industry during the Industrial Revolution.

The exhibition space was designed by architect James Sellers in an oriental style in the main building located in Kelvingrove Park.

Both the safe and medallions were the property of Alfred Langton Markham, 1923-2015, the vendor's father, who was managing director of Chubb Locks.

Alfred acquired them when the Chubb Museum was dispersed during the last century.

The medals and miniature safe will be sold at Chilcott's June 10th Fine Art, Antiques and Collectors Items sale at the Silver Street showroom adjacent to the Honiton livestock centre.

Viewing is on Thursday from 9am to 5pm, Friday 9am to 7pm and sale day from 8:30am.

The sale starts at 10.30am.

HONITON and District Lions have officially launched their 2017 duck race and have thanked local businesses who have sponsored the event.

The Lions gathered at an event at The Otter Inn to launch the annual initiative.

This year ten companies will be putting up £635 in cash and prizes for the duck race winners, making it possibly the best supported club duck race ever.

This year the club will be supporting children's mental health in the area and looking for as much support as last year at the event on Sunday, August 13th.

Sponsors that joined the Lions in the pictures were Matt Baker from MKM Building Suppliers, James Heathcock from Howdens Joinery and Paul Layzell from Layzell Funeral Directors.

Rain fails to dampen spirits at tractor run

TRACTORS trundled on through the rain as Colyton hosted one of its most popular events of the year on the recent Bank Holiday Monday.

The annual Colyton Vintage Tractor Run saw more than 100 tractors set off from the Peace Memorial playing field, cheered on by big crowds despite poor weather.

The run was officially started by the town crier of Colyton, Derek Wenn, who was accompanied by Hayley Perham, director as the event's main sponsor CRW Accountants, and her daughter Ameerah (pictured left).

They enjoyed a route through the East Devon countryside, this year finishing in Hawkchurch.

This year's chosen charities were the Alzheimer's Society and Seaton Friends for Hospiscare@Home.

CLINICAL hypnotherapist Samantha Davey first moved to Devon when she was 10, and attended Colyton Grammar School.

She moved away from the area when she left home and became an occupational therapist for the NHS, but returned to East Devon a few years ago and now lives in Axminster.

● HOW did you first become interested in hypnotherapy?

I first started using a self-hypnosis CD in my late 20s to help me sleep better and found it really helpful – that was my first introduction to hypnosis and over the following years I became more and more interested in the power of the mind to both help and heal ourselves.

I was previously employed as an occupational therapist for the NHS and I often worked with clients teaching relaxation and anxiety management skills.

I've also meditated as a daily practice for over 20 years, so I eventually decided to pull together all my skills, interests and life experience to re-train as a hypnotherapist.

● WHERE did you train?

I trained with Adam Eason at the Anglo-European College of Hypnosis in Bournemouth. I chose Adam because he was highly recommended and also because he has a very strong evidence-based approach to hypnotherapy.

The course was very in-depth and I qualified with the Hypnotherapy Practitioner Diploma, which is the most rigorous hypnotherapy qualification in the UK.

● WHAT conditions/issues can hypnotherapy help with?

Hypnotherapy can help with a very wide range of conditions and issues, which can be roughly divided into four areas, which also tend to overlap considerably: emotional difficulties such as anxiety, phobias, stress, depression, grief, self-esteem and confidence building; habitual problems and behavioural issues including nervous habits, like hair pulling or nail biting, and overeating; physical conditions such as irritable bowel syndrome, persistent pain, headaches and high blood pressure; and performance enhancement – whether it's for sports, business, public speaking, your driving test, exams or anything else where you need to give your best.

I am very experienced in working in all four of these areas with clients. I specialise in working with anxiety and related problems as so many problems, both psychological and physical, have stress or anxiety at their root.

Clients often find that when anxiety is addressed the benefits of this healing ripple out helping every area of life.

Hypnotherapy can help with so many issues – I'm very happy for people to call me if they're not sure whether hypnotherapy can help.

● HOW does it work?

We all experience light states of hypnosis every day, for example driving a familiar route on autopilot, reading a good book, playing an instrument or even just daydreaming.

We use a deeper version of this naturally oc-curing state to help step over the conscious, analytical, thinking mind.

When you're experiencing hypnosis you're very open to letting go of old ways of negative thinking, old behaviour patterns and beliefs.

Once you've let go of the old stuff you're very receptive to taking on new ideas, new positive ways of thinking and responding.

Hypnotherapy is a participative and collaborative therapy – just like any other form of psychotherapy or counselling – it's not something 'done to' you.

I'll guide you to use your imagination in a variety of different ways to achieve the goals you're aiming for. I usually tell people to forget about hypnosis and just think of it as a guided imaginary journey.

● YOU also practise BWRT – can you tell us what this is?

BWRT stands for Brain Working Recursive Therapy and works very quickly compared to traditional therapy.

Unlike many therapies there's no need for in-depth exploration of your childhood, past relationships or any trauma you've experienced in order to overcome your problems.

As long as you know how you'd like to be, BWRT can help you.

● WHAT do you enjoy about your job?

I never get tired of seeing and hearing about the amazing changes hypnotherapy and BWRT can create.

I love helping and empowering people to overcome their problems, especially when that affects every aspect of their lives.

When a client tells me that they no longer have a phobia that has affected their entire life, or depression or anxiety they've had for years is just not there any more, it's a truly wonderful thing. If I can play a part in making someone's life happier and more fulfilling then I'm happy too.

● WHAT do you enjoy doing in your spare time?

I enjoy walking, especially the coastline here in East Devon – in the spring and summer I'll tie that in with picnics and afternoons on the beach too. I love singing and belong to a local choir. I read a lot – both novels and therapy books.

● WHAT do you like about living in the local area?

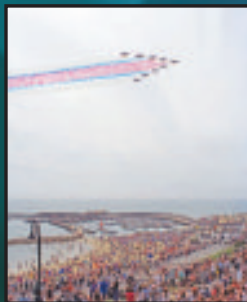

I enjoy the pace of life here and of course the people – we are lucky to still have a great sense of community.

I love living near the sea and this stretch of coastline is amazing. It's fantastic having so many great walks to choose from.

I love the landscape too, the gentle rolling hills and the vibrancy of colours – I've moved around a lot and it feels like home more than anywhere else. My roots are definitely here in East Devon.

Funding boost for Men's Shed project

A COMMUNITY group in Ottery St Mary is celebrating after being awarded funding by the Asda Foundation.

A total of £1,000 has been granted to the Ottery Men's Shed project, where people come together to take part in practical skills and activities.

Sessions are designed and run by their members and provide opportunities for people to share tools, resources and skills in order to create, learn and develop social networks.

Older people's charity the Royal Voluntary Service, with funding from the Asda Foundation, established the Sheds Grant Fund to provide small scale funding to people looking for help with either set-up or early stage development costs.

Grants of between £250 and £1,000 were made available – with applicants encouraged to apply for some of the tools and equipment they need for their activities or ongoing costs such as help with rent or insurance.

Tony Pugh, Ottery Men's Shed chairman, said: "The big difference the Royal Voluntary Service and Asda Foundation grant for rent payments and a pillar drill has made to our Shed is confidence and positivity."

"We no longer check every penny in the cash box at the end of each session to see if we have covered our standing costs. We know we are good for five months. The pillar drill is in near-continuous use and is one of our most valued power tools."

Jo Phillips, Sheds Project Manager at the Royal Voluntary Service, said: "Most shed groups are started by local groups coming together due to a shared interest in traditional crafts such as joinery, furniture renovation, metalwork and mechanics. We are delighted to be able to administer the grant funds so that these skills can flourish in a friendly and sociable environment, and that more local community based Sheds can get up and running."

■ A NEWFOUNDLAND dog named Stanley was the surprise winner of a Weber barbecue in a recent Otter Garden Centre competition.

Stanley's owner Lucy Wakefield, who runs Barking Mad Home Hosting for Dogs, entered Stanley – who has his own Facebook account – into a social media giveaway.

With the winner chosen at random, Stanley's name was pulled out of the hat.

After ascertaining that the dog had an owner who could cook sausages for him on his new barbecue, he was duly named the winner.

The pair visited Otter Garden Centres to claim the prize.

Staff and customers came to say hello to the impressive pooch.

As dogs are not allowed inside the garden centre, apart from guide dogs and assistance dogs, Stanley had to receive his barbecue from Wendy Kingdon and Sara Fowler just outside the entrance.

Lucy said: "We will be making good use of the prize."

"Barking Mad has around 20 hosts in the area who look after dogs for people going on holiday, to weddings or away for business meetings, and we often have get-togethers."

"So, a summer barbecue is on the agenda, and Stanley will be getting extra sausages."

Julie Ward, Senior Manager of the Asda Foundation, said: "The Asda Foundation is one of the many ways we can give something back to our local communities."

"That's why we lend a hand to a wide range of good causes with which our colleagues are involved with, sharing their passion and helping to make a difference through a variety of projects across the UK. We see the Sheds programme as making a real difference at a grassroots level and are proud to support this initiative."

The Shed movement follows a blueprint from an Australian project and since the first Men's Shed opened in the UK six years ago, there are now more than 300 in the UK with three new Sheds on average opening a week.

Sheds are often places for older men to come together and work on either individual or community projects – but are now increasingly seeing younger men and women getting involved and benefiting from social interaction and skill sharing.

Cornish art crosses the Devon border

■ EXETER & DISTRICT ENGLISH SPEAKING UNION: David Tovey, a leading authority on Cornish art, especially that of the St Ives Colony, gave a talk at the Exeter and District English Speaking Union's lunch event in May.

David's great-grandfather was one of the founding artists of St Ives Art Colony which was inspired by the French 'plein air' artists such as Monet and Renoir in the 19th Century. These were the first artists to paint relaxed outdoor scenes.

The St Ives artists were keen to illustrate the fishermen's lives of this period, before the way of life was lost.

The artists started going to Cornwall in the 1860s, initially in the winter months to paint pictures for the Royal Academy Summer Exhibition.

Gradually the artist colony expanded and they established themselves full time in St Ives.

They found that the strong Methodist inhabitants had very few cultural or entertainment events, certainly none on Sundays!

They sought to redress this situation by setting up drama and music groups, as well as sports teams, which competed with the Newlyn and Lamorna artists.

Initially the artists stayed in boarding houses, until the more entrepreneurial Cornish men built houses in St Ives with studios and then larger houses in the area.

Sadly a lot of these houses have been or are being knocked down as the St Ives authorities do not acknowledge this era of art, thinking that the only significant art is from the 1930s onwards when Barbara Hepworth and other artists were there.

This lead is followed by Tate St Ives which does not exhibit paintings from the St Ives artists of the 19th and early 20th centuries.

The Exeter and District AGM will be held prior to the supper event on June 21st.

The guest speaker will be Jung Chang, who is the author of many best-selling books including: Wild Swans: Three Daughters of China (1991), which the Asian Wall Street Journal called the most read book about China.

Her books have been translated into more than 40 languages and sold more than 15 million copies worldwide.

Anyone interested in attending Exeter ESU events, or becoming a member, should contact membership secretary Margaret Guyver on 01392 491898.

Big turnout for Stephen Foster demo at Axminster Art Society meeting

■ AXMINSTER ART SOCIETY: There was an excellent turnout in the United Reformed Church Hall on Chard Street for artist Stephen Foster.

Before his demonstration, acting chairman Rob Chappel reminded us about our upcoming annual exhibition at the Axe Vale Festival during the weekend of June 17th and 18th.

Although technically an oil painter, Stephen starts his work with an acrylic underpainting, using this stage to work out what is needed and to experiment with subtle tones of colour.

He paints on hardboard and finds that Schminke acrylic paints best suit his palette knife work, and always works with a palette knife sanded into a rounded tip; today using a Gerstaeker No 30 knife which he wipes clean regularly.

Unable to use spirits which give him migraines, he uses oil and told us how to clean brushes with vegetable oil and how to add layers of oil paint onto a dry picture using three layers – first ordinary Linseed Oil, next Purified Linseed Oil and finally, the greasiest, Sun Bleached Linseed Oil.

He had covered the board with a dark layer of Van Dyke Brown over a primer layer of white gesso warmed with a touch of Burnt Sienna.

He began by working a mass of white paint across the sky area using the flat, slightly bent back of the blade without lifting it off the surface before adding Yellow Ochre and then Prussian Blue.

Stephen works with a very restricted palette-Prussian Blue, Yellow Ochre, Magenta and Burnt Sienna and Terracotta but his favourite colour is grey which he creates from mixing a selection of these colours with white.

A beautiful slate grey can come from mixing Magenta with white and Phthalo Green or with a mix of the other three colours.

After tea, Stephen added oil paint using Lukas brand which he buys from Great Art.

Like Turner and Edward Seago, he keeps his work very simple with minimum detail allowing the viewer to use their imagination to fill in gaps.

He lightened the sea with paler blue to maintain a consistent tonal quality, modifying his original acrylic work rather than replacing it and finished a serene image of the Norfolk coast.

Our next demonstration will be on September 20th when Richard Turner will give a pastel demonstration.

Our June meeting will be our president's critique but catch our annual exhibition in our marquee at the Axe Vale Festival.

THE Chard Loyalty Card was launched in May 2016, by the Independent Businesses of Chard. It was felt, that as a group, we would be able to reward our customers for their loyalty for using our local services. This is achieved, by way of a monthly draw.

To enter all you need is a full Chard Loyalty Card, with 10 stamps filled. You receive a stamp when you spend £5.00 or over with any of our members. Once it is full, just hand it in. Each month three people have the chance to win a voucher, to use with any of the participating businesses.

The total amount that The Chard Loyalty Card draw, has paid out in vouchers is £1,500. This in turn has gone back into the town, keeping trade local.

The average number of cards entered into the monthly draw, is 70, which is impressive, when you consider that we have only been running for a year!

If there are any other Independent Businesses, who would like to be a part of The Chard Loyalty Card, please get in touch, as we would welcome new members.

Of course, this could not have been as successful without the our customers, being so enthusiastic and embracing the idea of The Chard Loyalty Card.

There will be a bonus draw for our 1st year, and to thank you all for taking part.

The first year was good, let's make the second year even better, happy shopping, and don't forget your card.

Don't forget your camera and take part in the NGS Photographic competition with a chance to win a visit to Mary Berry's lovely garden.

In 2017 the National Garden Scheme – www.ngs.org.uk – donated £2.7 million to the following charities, helping to change lives: MacMillan Cancer Support (£500,000); Marie Curie (£500,000); Hospice UK (£500,000); Carers Trust (£375,000); Queen's Nursing Institute (£250,000); Perennial (£130,000); Horatio's Garden (£130,000); Parkinson's UK (£100,000); MS Society (£100,000).

Entry is £5 for combined admission to both gardens (children free).

Farm shop doesn't miss a beat with defibrillator

MILLERS Farm Shop, on the A35 in Kilming-ton, has become the latest location to benefit from government funding to provide public access defibrillators across the whole of the UK.

The scheme, administered by the British Heart Foundation working in partnership with South West Ambulance service, has provided a high tech Automatic External Defibrillator (AED) and a support kit of training materials.

AEDs are portable devices which, when attached to a person with suspected heart attack, decide whether or not treatment by way of a small electric shock is required whilst professional help is on the way.

The automated nature of the devices means that a shock is only delivered when it is needed.

The shop's owner Malcolm Miller explained: "I decided to apply to get an AED because I recognised that the businesses now operating in the Gammons Hill area between them attract a significant footfall for large parts of the day.

"Additionally we are on a very busy crossroads which has seen its fair share of traffic accidents over the last few years, some of them very serious.

"Our shop's position made it the ideal location to site the AED so that it is readily available to not only our own customers but also those people visiting the pubs in Kilming-ton, the Texaco garage and the A35 Pit Stop.

The British Heart Foundation material includes a training package on Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) and how to use the AED.

Training sessions are open to anyone who would like to attend, free of charge.

Training co-ordinator at Millers, Liam Best, will be gauging the level of interest in the sessions before deciding on the best times to deliver them.

The training, which lasts about an hour, will be available at various sites around Kilming-ton, starting at The New Inn for groups of no more than 10 people at a time.

Liam said: "Delivering the training in small groups means that we can make sure that everyone is comfortable in using the device and offers them the chance to ask as many questions as they want.

"Anyone who lives in the area or visits any of the businesses at Gammons Hill is welcome to come along.

"I really hope that as many people as possible can give up this small amount of their time – it could make a lifetime of difference one day".

Further information about the free training can be obtained by contacting cprmillers@hotmail.com.

My first plane crash and I lost my notebook!

ALL old journalists remember the best stories they covered during their careers. Two of mine were plane crashes – one in Crewkerne in 1968 and the other near Ottery St Mary in 1980.

I remember the first one in 1968 – because I lost my notebook!

At the time I was working for the Express & Echo in Exeter. I was covering a job in Whimble and phoning my copy in when the news editor came on the line and asked how long it would take me to get to Crewkerne.

I just happened to be working with photographer Tony Scrivens who was a bit of a motorhead and drove a souped-up Mini Cooper. “Tell them 20 minutes,” he said.

“We’ll never make it in 20 minutes. It’s got to be 30 miles.”

Tony was never one to miss the chance of seeing how quick his pride and joy would go, and we actually did it in 30 minutes. The speedometer rarely fell below 80 mph and he frightened me to death.

When we arrived in Crewkerne we were met with a scene of carnage. A Canberra jet had crashed onto a garage in South Street. Thanks to the bravery of the French pilot, the plane had missed a nearby school but he ejected too late and was killed.

The Vickers Viscount airliner which crashed near Ottery St Mary in July 1980. All 62 passengers and crew escaped injury

Also killed was a local resident, Mr Charles Penman, 55, who went to the pilot’s aid but died of a heart attack. There were two other casualties – garage owner Ron Meecham, who was 52 at the time, and was severely burned by blazing fuel and Mr Arthur Hopkins, who had called into the garage for fuel, was injured.

Mr Meecham spent several weeks in Fren-chay Hospital, Bristol, where he underwent several skin grafts.

I had been working as a reporter for about three years and this was definitely the biggest story I had covered.

I called the Echo newsdesk and was told to write a piece immediately for the Western Morning News and phone the copy in and then return to the Honiton office for a more extensive piece for the next day’s Express & Echo.

When I got to Honiton I realised I had forgotten my notebook and concluded that I had probably left it in the telephone kiosk. So back to Crewkerne I went but my notebook was nowhere to be seen.

My second plane crash was less spectacular but also a miracle. I was editor of the Sidmouth Herald at the time and had just got home after a long day when I turned on the TV to see a news flash that a passenger plane had crash-landed near the Salston Hotel at Ottery St Mary.

It was hailed a miracle because on that July evening in 1980 the Viscount Airliner from Santander, carrying 62 people, plummeted from the sky over Ottery on its descent into Exeter Airport, grazing the rooftops before coming to rest in a nearby field at Bishops Court Farm. All on board escaped injury.

There were no mobile phones in those days but I managed to summon the Herald reporters and photographers and we were able to cover the incident in detail in the following day’s edition.

It subsequently transpired that the plane had run out of fuel. The only casualties were four sheep who were decapitated by a wing of the plane as it crash-landed.

Local papers, especially in those days, existed on a staple diet of courts, council meetings and flower shows. Such dramatic incidents such as aircrashes were few and far between.

In many ways, that’s part of the charm of the job but every reporter I have worked with over the years relished the chance to get their teeth into a real story.

But losing your notebook? That’s not to be recommended!

Bizarre story of the American who chose to die in Lyme

A MIDDLE-AGED woman, identified as an American by her accent, arrived in Axminster station on the London train.

She was obviously unfamiliar with the area as when she got on the bus she asked to be taken to the city.

The next morning that woman was found garotted in a beach hut at Lyme Regis.

It was one of the most bizarre stories I have covered in a 52-year career.

No identity was found on her body and at first police thought it was murder.

With nowhere to stay in Lyme, and no money on her, the woman forced her way into a beach hut on Monmouth Beach for overnight shelter. In the morning she was found dead.

It transpired that she garotted herself by tying a ligature around her neck and winding a stick tight at the back of her neck until she lost consciousness. She fell backwards, trapping the stick by the weight of her body.

I covered the subsequent inquest and can remember a detective sergeant demonstrated before the coroner how she suffered a lonely death. As far as I can remember, the identity of the woman was never established.

Not only bizarre but one of the saddest stories I ever wrote.

Another sad story I remember well when I was working for the Bridport and Lyme Regis News as chief reporter was the disappearance of a local woman and her dog.

The lady in question was a member of the Byass family famous for making sherry. She regularly walked her dogs on the cliffs of Lyme but on this particular Easter holiday such a mundane pastime ended in tragedy.

After failing to return home, the dog walker was reported missing when just one dog was found.

I went out with a search party but she and her other dog were never found. It was presumed that she and her pet had sunk into quicksand.

As kids we often played on the cliffs but I had not been on those cliffs to the east of the town for many years and was surprised by the extent of the erosion. Parts looked like the surface of the moon.

Is housing the best use of Old Courthouse land?

■ IT IS certainly about time that something was done about the Old Courthouse and Police Station in Axminster, unused since 2001 and 2016 respectively.

However, I am not sure whether building housing on the land is really making the best use of it.

When it was mooted that the police station was to be closed with the officers making use of the fire station just down the road, I did voice an opinion to many people that it would have been a much better plan for the two buildings to be knocked down and a purpose built fire station and police officers' office built on it with the old fire station being knocked down and that land sold off for housing.

It seems to me a much better idea for both the police and the fire service to have quick and easy access to Lyme Road rather than the present position of having to come out into Lea Combe and get past all the cars parked on a road which is too narrow to take two-way traffic most of the time.

If the fire station was positioned properly they could have direct access on to Lyme Road and there is no reason why they could not have traffic lights placed on all access roads that they could operate themselves in an emergency to stop traffic on all the approach roads for the few seconds it would take them to start off on their call-out.

Whilst I appreciate this could have been a more expensive exercise and do not know who would be benefitting from the proceeds of the land, I do feel that the present fire station/police office is much more ideally situated for housing as against its current use.

JERRY LACK,

■ AT THE pre-election hustings in Axminster Guildhall on May 18th, the candidates responded to a question on hunting for sport.

The Labour, Green and Liberal Democrat candidates all expressed their strong opposition to any repeal of the hunting act.

Guess which candidate supports the hunting of wild animals with a pack of dogs for sport?

It's the Conservative, Neil Parish. Yes, the same person whose manifesto in Pulman's (May 30th) includes 'animal welfare'.

Some think that this is a minor issue in a general election. It is anything but.

Supporting this cruel bloodthirsty activity (as Theresa May does) simply signifies that the Nasty Party are still there, if returned to power.

KATHY HACKMAN,
Axminster

Tory candidate should face electorate

■ I GATHER that Sir Hugo Swire, like Mrs May, will not be attending any hustings during the current election period. Presumably this is to protect themselves from awkward questions.

So far as I can ascertain, during the present election campaign only one member of the public has managed to address Mrs May, namely 'Kathy of Abingdon', who "wanted the disabled not to have their money taken from them"

(Kathy now has to live on £100 a month). Mrs May offered no reply.

Surely it is the moral and democratic duty of a prospective MP, and indeed of a Prime Minister, to debate with competitors and face questions from the electorate?

It is not enough for them to field questions from journalists who may or may not be biased.

MIKE TEMPLE,
Sidmouth

A35 group want action and not words

■ AN OPEN LETTER TO TIVERTON & HONITON PARLIAMENTARY CANDIDATES: The Wilmington A35 Action Group was established in 2015 and has the support of the residents of Wilmington and Widworthy parish councils.

The village has two major objectives:

- To improve the safety of residents and to improve the general environment in the village by reducing pollution in all its forms from noise, and from vehicles emissions; and
- To seek government commitment to either by-pass Wilmington and other villages through which the A35 passes, or a commitment to build a loop around Wilmington.

The first objective is the subject of a feasibility study recently undertaken by Highways England, and as a result of this study some progress is being made.

However, the long-term objective of either having a loop or a villages by-pass is the only sensible, long-term solution to the problems faced by residents.

Due to the winding and narrow structure of the A35, ever increasing volumes of speeding HGVs and cars through our village pose a danger to residents and cause high levels of pollution in the form of vehicle emissions, noise and vibration effects on properties.

As a group we would be delighted to meet with you to present our case and to provide you with all the data to support our cause.

Assuming you will be canvassing the village, this will give you a hands-on experience of the traffic volumes and the problems associated with the traffic.

Our message is very simple, we will vote in the forthcoming general election for the candidate who undertakes to make our problems their problems and treat the solutions to those problems as a first priority.

We want action, not words.

WILMINGTON A35 ACTION GROUP

■ THANK you Derek Sturch for an 'Ode to Cloakham Lawns' (Pulman's View, May 9th). It reduced me to tears of nostalgia.

I am also Axminster 'born and bred' but my playgrounds were Coombefields, which included the Fair Field where the circus and fair were held, all the way to the Woodbury Lane fields - now Woodbury Way, etc.

Lovely to see the allotments are still in use - my grandfather had a double plot from the age of 18 until he was 88 or so.

He walked, laden with produce, from there to Furzebrook.

Happy memories. Luckily I still live in an idyllic spot!

In September Working parents of three to four year olds across the country will be eligible for 30 hours of free childcare a week

PARENTS are currently eligible for 15 hours a week and the change in policy is only available from Ofsted registered nurseries, pre-schools and child-minders.

The new scheme will be introduced later this year and your child must have turned three before the start of the academic year.

The 30 hours of free childcare can be used in term times for 38 weeks or parents can spread the free childcare out over 51 weeks, but by doing so they would only be eligible for 21.5 hours per week.

Will I qualify for 30 hours of free childcare?

Parents of three and four year olds will need to meet the following criteria in order to be eligible for 30 hours of free childcare.

- They earn or expect to earn the equivalent to 16 hours at National Minimum or Living Wage over the coming three months.

- This equates to £120 a week (or c.£6,000 a year) for each parent over 25 years old or £112.80 a week (or c.£5,800 a year) for each parent between 21 and 24 years old and £56 a week for apprentices in their first year.

- This applies whether you are in paid employment, self-employed or on zero hours contract.

- The parent (and their partner where applicable) should be seeking the free childcare to enable them to work.

- Where one or both parents are on maternity, paternity, shared parental or adoption leave, or if they are on statutory sick leave.

- Where one parent meets the income criteria and the other is unable to work because they are disabled, have caring responsibilities or have been assessed as having limited capability to work.

- Where a parent is in a 'start-up period' (i.e. they are newly self-employed) they do not need to demonstrate that they meet the income criteria for 12 months.

- If one or both parents is a non-EEA national, the parent applying must have recourse to public funds.

A parent will not meet the criteria when:

- Either parent has an income of more than £100,000.

- If one or both parents is a non-EEA national and the parent applying does not have recourse to public funds.

What happens if a parent loses eligibility?

- They will receive a 'grace period' – this means they will be able to keep their childcare for a short period.

- Once the 'grace period' has lapsed, the parent should be entitled to the universal 15-hour entitlement.

Fascinating flamenco at the arts centre

FOUR of the South-West's finest exponents of flamenco return to Ilminster Arts Centre on Friday, June 16th, to present an evening of Spanish dance and guitar. As with last year's sell-out event, the line-up features flamenco dancers Aneta Skut and Victoria Clifford, accompanied by guitarist Cuffy Cuthbert, and vocalist and percussionist Jaime Cantera.

Together the group will take the audience on an atmospheric journey to the Spanish south, through the medium of its passionate and uniquely expressive music and dance.

To make the evening even more immersive, a pre-show supper of authentic Iberian cuisine is also being offered (advance booking essential).

Aneta Skut discovered her passion for dance as a child but when flamenco captured her soul she followed its path to Spain, to study in Madrid and in Andalusia. Aneta's style combines influences from both east and west - a fusion representing her life journey through different countries. Fellow dancer Victoria Clifford has also studied flamenco in Spain; she and Aneta make a formidable flamenco team.

Cuffy Cuthbert's fascination with flamenco also drew him to Spain, where he has studied and performed with many different musicians, dancers and singers. Jaime Cantera's roots are in Spain and Cuba. He writes many of the lyrics of the songs he sings, absorbing influences from different world music styles such as afro, Latin, gypsy, reggae and pop.

The flamenco evening promises to be another unforgettable evening at Ilminster Arts Centre and advance booking is advised. Tickets are £10, and a pre-show supper is available for £14 at 7pm, but must be pre-booked. For more details or to book call the box office on 01460 54973.

You'll definitely want more of STAG's next show!

Performances of Oliver to take place in Kilmington

S.T.A.G. (Shute Theatre and Arts Guild) are proud to be presenting Lionel Bart's Oliver at Kilmington Village Hall in a couple of weeks.

Directors, Anna Crabbe (Music) and Heather White (Stage) look forward to welcoming you to this production with its marvellous cast and live musical accompaniment which promises to be a stunning night out.

Rehearsals are well underway and the directors, cast and crew are enjoying immensely the preparations for the show for you to enjoy. The cast, with ages ranging from eight to well, shall we say more senior in years, are working hard and can't wait for the opening night.

Oliver is played by young STAG Levi. Levi had a small part in Lyme Regis community production of 'Oh What a Lovely War' as part of Lyme youth theatre and has taken part in plays at Marshwood School playing the lead in his final year there. He is very excited about playing the part of Oliver in this production. No doubt he'll be seeking more opportunities to get onstage for years to come.

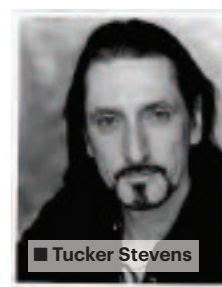

Fagin is played by Tucker Stevens who trained at the Academy Drama School in Whitechapel London, and has a string of professional theatre roles to his credit, from Shakespeare to Panto, he was a member of the Original Shakespeare Company playing at the Globe Theatre and at Hampton Court and is no stranger to the role of Fagin.

From T.V. (Eastenders, London's Burning and Ivanhoe) to the big screen (Tomorrow Never Dies and Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy) Tucker now treads the boards for us in this iconic role. We are privileged to have him as part of our cast.

Tom Miller, playing The Artful Dodger, has been involved with live theatre since he was four years old through Stagecoach, involved in productions including Sweeney Todd, The Ice Queen and Charlie and the Chocolate Factory. Tom also played Fagin in a production of Oliver with the Pauline Quirk Academy performing in Exeter when he was 11. A young man dedicated to the performing arts world.

Don't miss this wonderful production at Kilmington Village Hall - June 21st to 25th at 7.30pm. Tickets are available online at www.shutetheatreandartsguild.org.uk or from our box offices

Archway Bookshop, Axminster, Millers Farm Shop and Hurfords Stores in Kilmington or the Little Shop in Colyton. We look forward to seeing you.

TV regular to headline comedy night

ANOTHER top line up of comedy talent comes to the Pilot Boat in Lyme Regis this Saturday night headlined by another TV regular.

The star of this month's show, Henry Paker (pictured right), has appeared on Russell Howard's Good News, Seann Walsh's World and Edinburgh and Beyond as well as numerous Radio 4 shows. Henry is a real crowd pleaser with hugely relatable routines on everyday life peppered with punchlines from start to finish.

Having won the Leicester Mercury Comedian of the Year award in 2008 Henry has since gone on to have a run of critically acclaimed Edinburgh Fringe Festival shows and is now one of the most sought after headline acts on the comedy circuit.

Henry will be joined by twitter star (@littlostlad) turned comedian Jake Lambert (left). Having honed his writing skills on Twitter Jake now has a live set to rival his online output with stories filled with clever one liners and snappy asides. Jake is quickly ascending the comedy ladder and recent tour support slots for both Seann Walsh and Rob Beckett have seen him gain a new legion of followers. A star in the making who will undoubtedly be a TV regular before too long.

Completing the line up will be two new comedy talents, Drew Taylor and Tom Taylor, hailing from Wales and Bristol respectively.

Both uniquely different acts carving a name for themselves on the busy new act circuit.

Resident compere Tom Glover will once again be at the helm for the night, chatting with the club's regular crowd and getting to know all the newcomers.

The next Pilot Boat Comedy night will be on Saturday, June 10th at 8pm, doors open at 7pm. Tickets are £10 and are available from the bar on 01297 443157.

Folk fun for all in South Petherton

MORRIS DANCERS and Appalachian dancing; Blues, Celtic rock and busking in the pub; Punch and Judy, face painting and storytelling; a 'festival of choirs' in the church. These are just some of the events being arranged for the 6th Petherton Folk Fest on Saturday, June 17th, which offers a day of completely free fun and entertainment for people of all ages.

It will start at 9.45am with a parade into South Petherton's Market Square by Morris 'sides' and other performers, followed by the traditional Ceremony of the Glove - which is an ancient part of Petherton folklore. There will be music and dance in the Square all day until 6.30pm and visitors can also enjoy entertainment in The David Hall, The David Hall, The Brewer's Arms and the grounds and interior of St Peter and St Paul's Church. Plus, stallholders located in and around Market Square will be selling food and drink as well as local crafts, and refreshments will also be served in the church.

The official opening will be performed at 10am by Dave Longly who, from the mid-1980s, was involved in the hugely successful Petherton Folk Festival that started in the 1970s and ran until the late '90s. He will introduce Ian Baker, a member of Petherton Arts Trust, who will be MC throughout the day.

Petherton Folk Fest is continuing a tradition that began in 1231 and a key part of the event is Clipping the Church when, at 12noon, a chain of people hold hands and surround the church.

Throughout the day, varied entertainment in Market Square will include Irish dance by the talented youngsters from Yetminster, clog and belly dancing and, for the first time, Scottish country dance and Flamenco. At 11am, music gigs on the main stage in the Square will be opened by Velvet & Stone, an Indie-Folk band from Devon who combine rich vocals with acoustic guitar, bass, keys and violin. Other entertainers on the main stage will include singer/songwriter and guitar player, Phil King, and singer and fiddler Hannah Cumming, who will be accompanied on double bass by Jon Dyer. The Celtic Rock and Roots four-piece band, The Dambusters, will close the day's programme with a gig starting at 5.30pm.

Opening an afternoon of music gigs in The David Hall will be Owl in the Sun, a six-piece West Country band whose melody-driven songs blend shades of contemporary Folk, Americana and Gypsy Jazz in a sound which is all their own. Other performers in The David Hall include Somerset-based singer/guitarist Kitty Macfarlane, who is touring this year with Kathryn Roberts and Sean Lakeman; Unsung Roots, the Folk duo featuring Seth Bye and Katie Griffin; Jack Cookson, a multi-instrumentalist and singer/songwriter who hails from the South West; the Somerset-based award-winning Folk artist, Sharon Martin, and Phil Cooper, a contemporary singer/songwriter well-known for making a real connection with his audience.

Events for children will take place throughout the day, starting with a music workshop in The David Hall. There will also be a Morris workshop and puppet show in the Blake Hall and Maypole dancing, storytelling and a Punch and Judy show in the church grounds.

Pete Wheeler, Chair of the Folk Fest committee, says: "We were really pleased with the brilliant support we received in 2016 and I feel sure that this year's event will have an even bigger draw. Our objective is to provide entertainment for everyone, regardless of age, and the variety of events featured in the programme should mean that visitors can find something to enjoy every minute of the day."

The Chairman added that a performance by the multi-award-winning Folk singer Lucy Ward, at The David Hall on the evening of Friday, June 16th, would be a great way to start the weekend; and for those who would like more music in the evening after the Folk Fest, The Dambusters will be playing in The Brewer's Arms at 9pm.

English Civil War 1644

Man the Barricades!

Saturday, June 10th from 10.30am to 4.00pm Colyton

COLYTON'S English Civil War Day begins on Saturday, June 10th at 10.30am in Market Place, with the opening of the Country Market by Colyton's Town Crier, accompanied by the local folk singing ensemble, The Chantry Buoys.

With plenty of action swirling around the narrow streets, the highlight of the day will be the exciting armed barricade scenes in the morning and afternoon.

Entertainment will feature the arrival of Prince Maurice for the King, mounted cavaliers and Sir Walter Erle a Parliamentarian from Stedcombe, Axmouth. Peter Bagwell, a Foffeee, will be on hand to steady the townsfolk and lead the march to support the local militia in defence of the town.

The famous Taunton Garrison, in full period costume, will be representing the Colyton Town Militia defending the town at the barricade. The Garrison welcomes all visitors to the Living History Camp set on the picturesque St Andrew's Church Green.

After such a momentous occasion, the day draws to a peaceful close when the Town Militia, joined by townsfolk, and principal characters will parade into St Andrew's Church for a Drumhead Service.

We hope you enjoy your day that the good people of Colyton have worked hard to stage. Come along and join in this special event - you will receive a very warm welcome from all.

Car Parking

The town centre will be very congested, please use special car parking areas - only £1 per car. Please support the event and buy a souvenir programme £1

Civil War Social Evening - Colyton Peace Memorial Playing Fields.

After the excitement of the day in the town centre, come along, relax and enjoy an evening of open air entertainment. It starts with the live streaming of the World Cup qualification game England v Scotland football match from 5pm in the Pavilion. The conclusion is the symbolic burning at dusk of Colcombe Abbey & Stedcombe House that were attacked during the Civil War skirmishes between the rivaling Parliamentarians and Loyalists. During the evening, there will be a performance by local band Sunshine Samba followed with sessions from the popular Must be Mad. Soloist "Jess" will complete the entertainment line-up.

The Bar-B-Q & Licensed Bar will hopefully keep those attending fed and watered. There is something for all ages so bring the whole family along.

Admission is free.

Barricades were erected around the town to keep warring factions out. Colyton Townsfolk were not happy!

MAYFAIR
TOWN & COUNTRY

MORTGAGE FIGURES INDICATE A POSITIVE MARKET

UK HOME buyers borrowed a whopping £11.2 billion in March. Whilst down on this time last year due to the changes in stamp duty and its consequential 'boom' of buy-to-lets, this figure is substantially up on those for earlier this year.

It is certainly enough for Chris White – Sales Manager of Mayfair Town & Country Estate Agents in Crewkerne - to describe them as "remarkably good" and a good suggestion that serious buyers and sellers are "simply getting on with it."

The data was produced by the Council of Mortgage Lenders and, although referring to March, it can be seen as no less encouraging as a comparison to other less positive reports that have surfaced, only providing mere snapshots of the current market.

Of these figures, first-time buyers represented a large, encouraging chunk, borrowing around £4.9 billion – an increase of 29% from February. They also took out 31,500 loans, which was up 30% month-on-month and 12% year-on-year.

Those moving home borrowed £6.2 billion, an increase of 19% from February but down 33% year-on-year - 30,200 loans, which were up 24% month-on-month but down 28% compared to the total in March 2016.

As to be expected, the number of loans and amount borrowed decreased 58% and 60% respectively from the total in March 2016 – when there was a marked increase in activity due to the impending stamp duty surcharge.

Chris went on to say: "I'm sure we'll see the number of first time buyers continue to grow as the Bank of Mum and Dad becomes more prevalent, whilst at the same time lenders are offering some really competitive pricing. Many home owners are also choosing to remortgage their property, taking advantage of the many cheap mortgage deals available and the lenders' desire to attract new business. I expect this behaviour to continue well into summer."

Q8 SUV is joined by Q4 and three new e-trons on Audi 2020 roadmap

AUDI is facing up to the challenges of the present day but also confidently embracing the future with ambitious plans. Following a year that was impacted by the diesel crisis, the company intends to continue pushing forward with its strategic transformation, the details of which have just been outlined to shareholders by the Board of Management at its Annual General Meeting in Neckarsulm, Germany.

"We are rejuvenating our model portfolio enormously and will renew five existing core model series by mid-2018," stated Rupert Stadler, Chairman of the Board of Management of AUDI AG. "In addition, we will expand our successful Q family by 2019 with two new concepts – the Audi Q8 and the Audi Q4 – and we will launch our battery-electric e-tron models." Audi plans to launch three new electric models by 2020, after which the brand will gradually electrify models in each of its core series.

The focus this year is on top-end models with the new generations of the Audi A8 and Audi A7. The premium manufacturer will unveil the A8 at the first Audi Summit to be held in Barcelona on July 11. With this new event concept, the Ingolstadt-based company will create an exclusive presentation format all around the Four Rings. "There, we will show the world everything that defines Vorsprung durch Technik and our brand," explained Stadler.

Over 30% fully or partially electric sales by 2025

Audi is systematically utilising Group synergies in order to implement topics of the future even faster and more efficiently. In April, the brand agreed on new development cooperation with Porsche for future vehicle architectures. Part of the cooperation is the development of shared premium architecture for electrification – an effective lever to enhance the competitiveness of electric cars. By 2025, Audi intends to achieve a proportion of one third fully or partially electric models in its unit sales.

In addition to the traditional car business, the premium brand will expand its range of digital services in the future. With myAudi, the company aims to create a consistent entry into the brand's digital world and establish a platform for a wide range of online services, which will be open also for third-party providers to offer services. Audi is also expanding its mobility services for urban areas and intends to offer them in more than 15 markets worldwide by the end of this decade.

With a subsidiary founded in March 2017, Audi will take over the leading role within the Volkswagen Group in the development of autonomous driving. Autonomous Intelligent Driving GmbH is working on the technology for driverless vehicles in urban environments, which will be applicable in models of various brands. The technology is to be ready for application in a first small series of cars early in the next decade.

"We are financing our transformation out of our own resources," said Axel Strotbek, Member of the Board of Management of AUDI AG for Finance, IT and Integrity. "Our business operations are robust also in the currently challenging situation. On the side of expenditure and investment, our 'Speed up!' program is helping us to achieve a high level of efficiency and thus a maximum focus on the topics of the future."

In the first quarter of 2017, the Audi Group achieved an operating profit of more than 1.2 billion. With an operating return on sales of 8.7 percent, the company clearly met its profitability target. The net cash flow increased to more than 1.5 billion.

In full-year 2017, the company intends to slightly increase deliveries of Audi-brand cars compared with the number of 1,867,738 automobiles delivered in 2016. Revenue should also slightly surpass the prior-year level of 59.3 billion. In terms of operating return on sales, following the 5.1 percent of last year, Audi now plans to achieve its strategic target corridor of 8 to 10 percent once again. In 2016, operating profit was reduced by 1.8 billion and operating return on sales by 3.1 percentage points due to special items in connection with the diesel crisis and Takata airbags.

Vauxhall offers a grand deal to young drivers

Vauxhall is helping young drivers (aged 18-24) cover the initial cost of getting on the road, with a £1,000 (including VAT) insurance contribution when they buy a Corsa Limited Edition.

Young drivers can combine the insurance contribution with one of Vauxhall's great finance offers, helping to make the cost of motoring more affordable. With a variety of competitive offers to choose from, including Personal Contract Payment plans, the Corsa is a fantastic option to get young drivers on the road.

The Corsa Limited Edition is ideally suited as a first car, with a host of features that make the model stand out from the crowd. On the outside, 17-inch black alloy wheels, front lower spoiler, side sills, VXR-style roof spoiler and a chrome-effect exhaust give the model an imposing road presence, while sports suspension and LED daytime running lights enhance performance and driver visibility.

Inside, the Corsa Limited Edition offers exceptional comfort and connectivity. Sports-style front seats, VX-Line interior pack (VX-Line leather covered flat-bottom steering wheel, VX-Line leather covered gear knob and handbrake lever), air conditioning and tinted rear windows give all occupants extra comfort. Vauxhall's latest generation IntelliLink system with smartphone integration and audio streaming keeps the driver connected and able to change the journey playlist to suit, when it's safe to do so.

"We are all aware of the high insurance premiums faced by young drivers, so to help young drivers get on the road Vauxhall has introduced a £1,000 insurance contribution programme," said Leon Caruso, Vauxhall's Retail Sales Director. "The Corsa Limited Edition is a great choice as a first or second car, with dynamic design features and superb connectivity, all backed up by excellent safety equipment."

The insurance contribution programme is available now for a limited time while stocks last, and is eligible on new Corsa Limited Edition models ordered and registered before 30th June 2017. Customers must be aged 18-24 and hold a full driving licence.

For full terms and conditions please visit www.vauxhall.co.uk or your local Vauxhall retailer.

Above the influence: Tips from IAM RoadSmart

ILLEGAL substances can affect drivers in several ways, making them unfit for the road. But it is not only illegal drugs that we should be wary of. Prescribed or over the counter drugs can have similar negative affect's on motorists too and driving while impaired by medication could see you banned from using the road. This week's tips give advice on riding and driving with prescribed medication, from IAM RoadSmart's head of driving and riding standards Richard Gladman.

- Always ask your GP when the medication is prescribed and then confirm the information by reading your medication leaflet before you take it. This can often be overlooked as more pressing medical matters are at the forefront of your mind. If you need further details or advice about your medication ask the pharmacist or get back in touch with your medical professional. Some drugs are based on banned substances but if you stick to a prescription you will not be breaking the law, but your driving can still be impaired.
- If you feel in any way affected by your medication don't take the chance; use a designated driver or use a taxi. Don't risk your or others lives by driving when your concentration or reactions are impaired.
- If you are not sure whether you can drive with your medication, don't get behind the wheel. Use public transport to get to your destination. The government offer advice and also has a list of prescribed medications you are not allowed to drive with, visit www.gov.uk/drug-driving-law.

- Don't stop taking your medication. This tip may seem obvious but some motorists may choose the convenience and luxury of driving over health. Ask your healthcare professional if an alternative is available and if not, plan around not being mobile.
- Remember some untreated medical conditions and allergies will also affect your ability to drive. The itchy streaming eyes often caused by hay fever can make driving hazardous, add to that a sneezing fit and you are a real danger. Manage your symptoms and avoid driving when this is at its worst. Pollen eases in the evening.

Richard said: "The legislation in relation to driving with prescription drugs is there for all of our protection. More so than any other impairment, drivers find themselves falling foul of the effects of their prescribed medication by making a decision to take a chance. It is often through lack of knowledge that they find themselves in this position. If you are taking medication check what the side effects are or might be and plan accordingly."

Introducing the new Peugeot 308

The New PEUGEOT 308, due to hit UK roads in September, is the most connected and safest yet with a range of technology and styling enhancements for the 2018 model year.

In a class driven by connectivity, New PEUGEOT 308 customers benefit from a 9.7" capacitive touchscreen which puts the key functions of the interior safely at the fingertips of the driver. From dual zone climate control to 3D Connected Navigation with TomTom Live updates.

The new infotainment system incorporates Mirror Screen®, comprising Mirrolink®, Apple CarPlay™ and Android Auto functionality, allowing the seamless integration of smartphone functions with the interface, ensuring drivers safely access functions as required.

Driving aids make New PEUGEOT 308 one of the safest cars in its class

Benefitting from all of the driving aids of the globally acclaimed all-new PEUGEOT 308 SUV, PEUGEOT's family hatchback and SW now offer intelligent Speed Limit Recognition, Adaptive Cruise Control, with stop functionality and an Active Blind Spot Monitoring System.

PEUGEOT's Speed Limit Recognition offers a new level of intelligence. A windscreen-located camera reads speed limit signs and displays them on the car's dashboard. Signs for specific vehicles, such as HGVs, are filtered from the information feed.

The option of Adaptive Cruise Control with Stop function detects vehicles in front of the car and adjusts the speed automatically using the brakes to retain a safe distance. An Active Blind Spot Monitoring System also alerts the driver to the presence of another vehicle in the blind spot to avoid any potential danger. City Park, a smart park assist system completes the safety and convenience offering.

New Euro 6 compliant petrol and diesel engines

Under the bonnet, the New PEUGEOT 308 offers a new range of engines which are all compliant with strict Euro 6 regulations. The award winning three-cylinder PureTech petrol engine has been upgraded for the new model year, and is coupled with a new six-speed manual gearbox for improved efficiency and control. At-exhaust emission controls on the engine are designed for efficient pollution reduction; high-precision injection control on the 1.2L PureTech 130 Stop&Start engine enhances combustion efficiency: exhaust gases pass through a catalytic converter followed by a passive-regeneration particle filter.

The New PEUGEOT 308 is also the first PSA Group model to adopt the new 1.5L BlueHdi 130 S&S diesel engine, a four-cylinder unit that also implements at-source and at-exhaust emission control. Tested under competition conditions at the 24-hour Le Mans event, the engine also adds an SCR (Selective Catalytic Reduction) pollution control system.

The new eight-speed automatic transmission coupled with the 2.0L BlueHdi 180 Stop&Start completes the new engine range, while the New PEUGEOT 308 GTi by PEUGEOT SPORT is powered by a 270 PS THP Stop&Start unit, enabling 0-62 mph in just 6.0 seconds with CO2 emissions of just 139g/km.

The New PEUGEOT 308 and 308 SW will be available to order this summer with the first deliveries in September. Customers will be able to configure and buy their new car using PEUGEOT's Order Online facility.

Dennis Retter

HONITON Sea Angling Club members are mourning the death of their long standing chairman Dennis Retter from Offwell after a short illness.

Club Secretary Mike Spiller said: "Club members have been devastated with the news. Dennis had helped so many anglers from all over the south west with his tuition. He managed the England casting team for many years."

■ SADLY MISSED: Dennis Retter

tug of war

Nationals at Offwell

ON the weekend of June 17th the Offwell Recreation Ground and Village Hall Charity are hosting The National Championships for the English Tug Of War Association.

This event will see teams from all over England do battle of the strongest and fittest for the honour of representing their country in the British and Irish Championships and the European Championships which this year England are hosting in Stockport.

The last time the National Championships were hosted in Devon was in 1996 in Paignton while it was held in Yeovil by Somerset Cadets in 2015.

Although Offwell no longer has a tug of war club, Damien Richards who pulls for Bristol-based Felton Eccles, successfully pitched for Offwell beating three other possible venues in England.

At last year's event there were 20 teams off around 15 members and this has the making of a very large event.

If anyone would like to rent a space for a stall, sponsor the event or for further information, please contact the Secretary of ORG&VHC on 01404831527.
